How To Apply NRI PAN Card In USA?

Every individual in the U.S., who is obliged to file a return in India, as well as those who desire to conduct a financial transaction for which PAN quoting is necessary, must have a PAN. If an NRI (non-resident Indian) fits into one of the three categories, he must also get a PAN. The process of obtaining a NRI PAN card is reasonably straightforward and consistent across all demographic groups. NRIs, on the other hand, must submit certain papers that are unique to them while seeking for a PAN.

How can a US NRI obtain a PAN number?
A PAN may be obtained by submitting the specified PAN application to the district's approved PAN agency or by submitting an online application to NSDL with two face pictures, ID proof, address proof, and fee. A photocopy of the old PAN is also required in the case of re-print (re-issue).

The following documents are necessary to apply for a PAN card as an NRI in the USA:
If you're applying for a PAN card as an NRI, you'll need the following documents:

1. Application form to file a PAN card
2. Identity Proof: A copy of your passport
3. Proof of your US address: a copy of a bank account statement from where you live OR a copy of an NRE bank account statement from India with at least two transactions in the last six months, confirmed by the Indian embassy or consulate.

Is it necessary for non-resident Indians to have a PAN card?
- According to the Indian Income Tax Department, this is required. PAN is now required for all investors who wish to invest in India, according to SEBI. It's also required if you wish to do any form of financial or investment transaction in India that costs more than INR 49,999.

Is it required for NRIs who have a permanent account number to submit a tax return in India?
- No, as far as we know, it isn't required.
- You must file a tax return if you receive money from India. Even if you are not earning any money in India, it is usually preferable to submit a tax return since it improves your credibility and makes it easier to obtain various forms of loans.

Application Processing Time to get a PAN card in the US: The card is mailed by registered India Post and takes around one month to arrive. The real card will be mailed to your location within 15 working days of getting your voucher number, depending on the nation you live in.